

Is Hospice Good For Your Patients and Families?

Patients and Families say “Yes.”

Patients and families tell us that when a loved one is faced with a life-limiting illness, challenges can present themselves that turn their lives upside down.

They also tell us that Hospice, especially when started early, helps them manage pain and provides caregivers the support and resources they need to make every day count.

Source: National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization, “Measuring Hospice Care: the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization National Hospice Data Set,” October 2004. Data collected from 2002, 2001 and 2000.